'Ollie' is the one to go to

IN response to Joy Parry's letter in the October 9 edition, I was pleased to hear that the article of my son's achievement inspired her daughter.

We tried and tried to help my son with his riding and in the end Ollie from Limited Edition Cycling managed to do it in just four short lessons. If you think that this could work for your daughter you can contact Ollie through the club website at www.limitededition-cycling.co.uk

She has the knowledge, patience and determination to ensure your daughter succeeds. Good Luck.

Help our athletes to Rio 2016

IT was great to read that the council is continuing to support future Team GBs stars after the success of Gemma Gibbons and Zoe Smith at London 2012. No one can argue that the Games were an overwhelming success for the capital and Greenwich in particular, but the icing on the cake was watching these two local athletes excel in their fields for the home nation. I've been following their progress through your paper ever since it was first mentioned that they could qualify for the national team. Even when they did make the final cut, few could have expected them to do as well as they did with Gemma bringing home a silver medal and Zoe breaking the national record in her class. They will clearly inspire the next generation having shown that anything is possible if you choose to follow your dream. And for Zoe and Gemma this is, I'm sure, just the start of a very fruitful career in their respective sports. All the way along they have credited the support of the Starting Blocks charity as being a fundamental reason for their success and I would therefore encourage any one who can afford it to attend the next fundraising dinner, or to donate whatever they can afford to support local athletes as they aim for Rio in 2016.

Who knows, your money could help the next Zoe or Gemma in their pursuit of success and who can forget the emotions we felt when we watched these local stars perform on our home turf just a few months ago.

Postcard to posterity

I HAVE been reading your article in Greenwich Time this week, regarding the St George's Garrison Chapel. I have in my possession an original postcard of a Garrison Church parade showing soldiers in uniform which I believe to be pre First World War. I am wondering if it will be of historical interest.

Everyone for tennis at new courts

I WAS very happy to read about the new initiative that is encouraging people to play tennis in Greenwich. It's such a fantastic game - It can be played socially or competitively, singles, or doubles and is always good fun. Hopefully Andy Murray's victory at the US will continue the Olympic good feeling and encourage more people to take up the sport. Greenwich is already blessed with quite a few cheap courts and the new ones at Hornfair Park will be yet another place people can rely on to get a space to play. The surfaces of the courts look great and it's good to hear that lots of young people are being given the opportunity to practice there.

GAMES GREETERS: some of the volunteers who helped visitors in the Royal Borough

Apology for delay in tunnels refurb

THE Royal Borough of Greenwich has apologised for what it called “unacceptable delays” to refurbishment work on the Greenwich and Woolwich foot tunnels and has undertaken to restore the river crossing back to full public use following a full review of the project at a Cabinet meeting last week. Refurbishment of the both the tunnels has been ongoing since 2010. However the project has suffered severe delays and has resulted in the council changing contractors to facilitate the completion of the work. Councillor Denise Hyland, cabinet member for regeneration, enterprise and skills said: “The Royal Borough of Greenwich shares the frustration of pedestrians and cyclists over the time taken to complete this project and, whilst both tunnels remain open, we apologise for the unacceptable delays to this work. “We are currently taking legal advice from a firm of specialist construction lawyers on the best route to recover the additional costs from the contractors. “The council is also in the process of procuring a new contractor to complete the project and we have publicly stated that we will disclose the full extent of the costs once we have received bids from all interested parties. She added: “Our overriding priority is to ensure that the works are completed as quickly as possible so that these important river crossings can be restored to full use.”

EMPLOYERS are keen to meet thousands of royal borough residents who gained valuable skills and experience working or volunteering for the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

A jobs fair for ‘Games graduates’ takes place next month, which aims to promote potential employees in a tough jobs market, and already employers are lining up to meet them. They know that the Games workers have proved themselves good employees, and they want to make use of their skills and talents.

The post-Games recruitment event is being organised by GLLaB, Greenwich’s local employment and training service, which helped Games’ organisers LOCOG fill large numbers of Olympics vacancies over the summer. People will be able to find out more from the Games Graduate website at www.gamesgraduates.org

To register to go along, they should input their LOCOG accreditation number. Other people who worked in an Olympic-related job but were not LOCOG accredited will be contacted by GLLaB or Jobcentre Plus, and invited to attend. People attending must bring their invitations with them, and each person will be given a time slot.

The Games Graduate Employer Fair follows two similar events north of the river, and aims to get people recruited for vacancies in the run-up to Christmas. There are already more than 600 people registered with GLLaB on the Games Graduate Network. Some are already coming into GLLaB offices for one-to-one support to help find a job.

One person who found work with LOCOG was mother-of-three Barbara Mott from Maryon Road, Charlton.

by Dick Townsend-Smith

Based at Canary Wharf, she organised the loaning out of pool cars to competitors and their teams during the Games, working five days a week.

“I’m still working because I have to tie up all the paperwork, but the job comes to an end on November 30,” she said. “I’d like to go to the jobs fair because I’m looking for something new. GLLaB were helpful with doing my CV, and I got a job interview almost straightaway. GLLaB definitely boosted my confidence, I would never have applied for some of the jobs that I saw because I felt it was so daunting. But they said ‘just go and see if you get an interview’, and I did. LOCOG taught me new computer skills, and this all gave me more opportunities for different types of work in the future.”

Aishah Harun from Meadowside in Eltham, also landed a job in the heart of the Olympic Village helping to transport athletes to Games venues thanks to GLLaB. Aishah who speaks English, Malay and Indonesian, led a team of volunteers. She told She said: “They gave me a lot of advice, and put me in touch with people who helped me format my CV. I was also able to attend some of the workshops run by GLLaB and LOCOG. I’m now searching for a new job and I’d like to go to the jobs fair. In the meantime, I’m looking to do some voluntary work.”

Around 3,000 local people got jobs supporting the Olympics and Paralympics through GLLaB’s help. Jobs included security, catering and hospitality, support services such as cleaning, transport and logistics, and customer service

BEHIND THE SCENES: Cardwell pupils get to work in the studio both behind and in front of the camera

Cue the news!

Y6s first to report from new O2 Sky studios

AND now for the news headlines! Pupils from Cardwell primary school were the first to present a news bulletin from new studios at The O2 last week.

Around 30 pupils went behind the scenes to see how TV is really made at the Sky Studio - a new experience at the Greenwich peninsula venue. The 10 and 11-year-olds had a chance to read the news headlines, control the autocue and operate the camera during a morning 'broadcast' last Wednesday.

And they had a group of professional broadcasters to keep a watchful eye after a master-class in presenting.

Morning news show presenters from The Sunrise Show on Sky News went down to the The O2 after their Wednesday broadcast to check out The O2 Sky studio and meet the budding presenters.

They included veteran broadcaster Eamonn Holmes and co presenters Charlotte Hawkins and Jacqui Beltrao who showed how the experts do it before giving the children a go.

Ten-year-old Joy Maton, from Charlton, who has been chosen to write a 150-word article about the experience for children's newspaper First News, told GT she wanted to be a world wide TV reporter and said: "It was a fantastic experience as I wasn't expecting to meet anybody famous. I got to pretend to be a news reader and have a picture with a few news reporters, it was fun."

Split over three floors at the entrance to the arena the Sky Studios gives visitors a taste of a news broadcast studio where they can record their own news reports to download.

There are also interactive photo pods where you can have your photo taken with your favourite Sky show.

Visitors can then download their videos and photos and share them online. The new studios also work as a gateway into the Sky Backstage Area which is open to all Sky customers.

All together now...

Young minds on health matters for Mental Health Day events

MEMBERS of Greenwich Young People's Council (GYPC) joined a lesson in Zumba fitness from instructor Lizzie Smith in Woolwich's General Gordon Square. The impromptu class on October 10, helped to mark World Mental Health Day, when local health organisations encouraged people to think about their mental health and well-being. Five members of GYPC also helped by handing out information leaflets to young people on their way home from school or college. The campaign booklets reminded young people about the importance of good physical health to good mental health. GYPC member David Hall, who goes to Harris Academy in Eltham (formerly Eltham

Lizzie, a qualified Zumba instructor at just 17, said: "There were lots of young people who were really enthusiastic, I am glad I could share my love of Zumba for the greater awareness of mental health."

Greenwich MIND used the day to publicise Feel Good Greenwich, a programme to help people focus on good mental health, and use local services to help improve their mental well-being. MIND ran morning sessions in the square where people could find out more. A second event was held at the Greenwich Heritage Centre in the afternoon to launch an ongoing campaign.

Youth transport talks are just the ticket

GREENWICH Young People's Council have been hard at work over the past few months planning a big event for young people in Greenwich. On Saturday, October 6 at the YMCA, the GYPC helped set up their transport campaign named Get, Set, Go. The event linked to a national campaign designed to improve transport by making it cheaper, better and more accessible for all. Local bus drivers, parents, decision makers and young people all attended and came together to make it an enjoyable and informative event.

The day was jam-packed with fun sessions. Penalty shoot-outs between bus drivers and young people took place and proved very popular. Quizzes on bus routes were held for the less-sporty and required everybody to find information

YOUNG people gave their views on a range of transport issues at a special event organised by Greenwich Young People's Council earlier this month. The aim was to make it easier and safer for young people to travel on public transport. Fifteen-year-old GYPC member Hazal Kirci who represents Plumstead Manor school and David Hall from Harris Academy submitted their own reports for GT...

from bus stops and bus maps. Crucial discussions between the transport police, bus drivers, councillors and able and disabled young people took place towards the end of the day. Each group had a different topic to discuss and came up with three suggestions for improvement. The topics were getting to school on time, improving relationships with bus drivers, making public transport more accessible and making public transport safer. Everyone felt they had the opportunity to speak and build relationships to make things better in Greenwich.

ON October 6 we held our Get Set Go event with the aim of voicing young people's concerns on public transport in the borough, in connection with the UK Youth Parliament's (UKYP) national campaign. The event was held at Woolwich YMCA and attended by young people from across the borough, bus drivers and safer neighbourhood transport police who work in the borough as well as key decision makers: Cllr Jackie Smith, Len Duvall (London Assembly member for Greenwich), Caroline Pidgeon (Chair of the London Assembly's Transport Committee) and the Mayor and Mayoress. The event consisted of a penalty shootout; a football tournament; fun games and discussions with the aim of coming up with three ways of tackling the issues that young people in the borough faced most prevalently concerning public transport: safety, accessibility, getting to school on time and the relationship with bus drivers. The day was a success and enjoyed by all.

RESIDENTS inspired by the Olympic and Paralympic equestrian events in Greenwich Park will soon have the chance to put their passion into practice.

They will be able to learn about horses - for a career - at a horticultural and equestrian centre to be opened in the borough in February, 2013.

The Royal Greenwich Horticulture and Equestrian Skills Centre will be an exciting legacy from the events that were such an outstanding success at the Games.

The existing house at 341 Shooters Hill Road has been refurbished to provide classrooms and an administration block, while the grounds behind the house provide space for a large classroom block, stables for up to 20 horses, an indoor and outdoor arena, and an innovative horse therapy facility.

The centre is the result of a partnership between Royal Greenwich and Hadlow College in Kent, which offers a range of courses which Greenwich students can take up.

The centre at Shooters Hill will offer a choice of courses in horticulture later next year but the first equestrian courses start in February following an open day in January.

The further education courses will be offered at different levels for over 16s including people with limited experience of working with horses. Higher level courses will be for those who have more experience of working with horses and would like to gain qualifications for a career in the industry.

Students can learn about horse care, handling horses, tack and equipment, working

All courses will allow successful students to progress to the next level of qualification, and could lead to degree level study which will also be offered from September.

Peninsula nightclub's licence redrawn

THE Royal Borough of Greenwich has acted to prevent further disturbances at the nightclub PROUD2 by redrawing the terms of its licensing agreement. The club, based at The 02, was subject to a serious incident last month where bouncers were attacked. After closing the venue for four weeks, the Royal Borough's Licensing Committee has allowed PROUD2 to reopen with a series of changes to its licensing agreement. This includes making changes to the security and supervision staff, new searching methods including the use of metal detection technology, the introduction of an earlier closure time. Cllr Maureen O'Mara, the royal borough's cabinet member for community safety said: "Whilst we recognise that late night venues contribute much to the enjoyment of people and the local economy, we will always act swiftly to ensure public safety and prevent crime. The licensing changes to PROUD2 that the Royal Borough has enforced will reduce the chances of a repeat of the abhorrent scenes that occurred recently." Details: www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/licensing GIFTED gardeners from all over the borough got together at Woolwich Town Hall to receive their awards for Greenwich in Bloom 2012.

Winning residents were presented with their certificates by the Mayor, Cllr David Grant, on October 4.

The annual competition gives residents the opportunity to show the rest of the Royal Borough what they've been doing to brighten up their gardens and improve the local environment.

First place for the Best Summer Colour Front Gardens was awarded to John and Margaret O'Rourke, of Abbey Wood. Second place went to Mr A. Hodder, of Eltham, followed by Mr Arthur Day, also of Eltham, and Mr Dolan, of Charlton in third and fourth places.

Mr J. Kinsella, of Charlton, claimed the top prize for Best Front Landscape Design Garden, followed by the intrepid O'Rourkes from Abbey Wood. Mr M. Hill, of Eltham, and Mr G

Mr Kinsella also claimed first prize in the Best Back Gardens category, just ahead of Mr Hill. Third and fourth were Mrs J. Bryan, from Lee, and Mrs S. Bliss, of Eltham.

Mr Hill's first place came in the Best Hanging Baskets or Window Boxes category. Close up were Mr Kinsella, the O'Rourkes and Ms C. Tucker, of Thamesmead.

Cllr Peter Kotz, the cabinet member for cultural and creative industries, said: "Once again the entries for this year's Greenwich in Bloom were a credit to the Royal Borough. It is fantastic to have had so many residents displaying beautiful gardens and helping to make Royal Greenwich, a host borough for the London Games, look so fantastic. I hope the winners really enjoyed the evening."

STUDYING the famous poem 'The Highwayman' was brought vividly to life for children in Year 5 at Nightingale Primary School in Bloomfield Road, Woolwich.

Their teacher Keren Hurst wanted them to meet some real horses and riders - and wrote to the King's Troop, Royal Horse Artillery, at Woolwich Barracks asking if they could help out.

The soldiers agreed, and true to their word, Lance Bombadier Megan Wildish and Gunner Emily Townsend arrived at the school on horseback.

Some of the children had never touched a horse before, and were very excited as they got to know Austin and Zena, and asked their riders lots of questions.

"The horses were very big but gentle. I held my hand flat and they ate my apple!" said Keidina from Year 5.

Their teacher added: "We were delighted to welcome the soldiers to Nightingale and very grateful that the King's Troop was able to spare them for half an hour."

'The Highwayman' was written by Alfred Noyes and first published in 1906. It is based on the story of legendary highwayman Dick Turpin, and was voted 15th in a BBC poll for the nation's favourite poems in 1995.

A NEW campaign is under way to encourage visitors to pay a return visit to Royal Greenwich after a spectacular summer of sporting events. The campaign aims to build on the royal borough's success as a world-class tourist destination during this summer's Olympic and Paralympic Games. GT learns how the Royal Borough plans to boost tourism and the local economy...

BILLIONS of people across the world watched as iconic images of Royal Greenwich were flashed around the globe during the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

Local landmarks including Greenwich Park, the Old Royal Naval College, the National Maritime Museum, the Royal Observatory, and the nearby Cutty Sark provided a dramatic backdrop to some of the Games' major events. It left no-one in doubt that Royal Greenwich and its host of unique attractions, had now come of age as a world-class destination for tourists to visit.

The royal borough is capitalising on this new status with a full scale campaign to boost tourism. It aims to support local businesses of all shapes and sizes, give a powerful boost to the local economy, and help create many more new jobs. Called 'Discover More', the campaign kicked off with a series of Press visits designed to show the media what Royal Greenwich has to offer. And from yesterday (Monday, October 22), the public can take advantage of exclusive 'Discover More' offers on a new website at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/discover

People are being urged to visit on day trips or to stay for longer, and experience the full variety of attractions on offer. Apart from the Maritime Greenwich World Heritage Site, there is the remarkable architecture of the Royal Arsenal in Woolwich, the magnificent Eltham Palace, and Greenwich Peninsula, home to the world's most successful entertainment venue The O2 Arena. And many of the attractions are free of charge to visit. Royal Greenwich attracts 18 million visitors, generating £774 million every year for the local economy, supporting nearly 12,000 local jobs. It's a sector seeing rapid growth, in line with the royal borough's ambitious programme of regeneration, all spurred on by being one of the six Olympic Host Boroughs for London 2012. New hotels are opening across the royal borough with hotel bed space increasing fourfold over the next 12 months. Cllr Chris Roberts, leader of the royal borough, said: "Discover More is about opening people's eyes even further – including the stunning Maritime Greenwich World Heritage Site and beyond to the wealth of other attractions here too – from the Jacobean beauty of Charlton House to the glorious Eltham Palace – to our museums in Woolwich and the breathtaking architecture of the Royal Artillery Barracks." He added: "This is about creating another surge in our already booming local tourism industry. We are seeing a wave of new hotels and attractions opening and we have a skilled and trained local workforce to support this growth which provides local jobs and boosts our economy."

The last twelve months have seen some of the most significant moments in the royal borough's history. As well as hosting the equestrian, shooting, archery, gymnastics, basketball, modern pentathlon and wheelchair basketball events during London 2012, it achieved royal status in February in recognition of its long-standing ties with the British Monarchy. The newly-restored Cutty Sark tea clipper was opened by The Queen in April, and the magnificent National Maritime Museum now includes the spectacular new Sammy Ofer Wing which opened at the end of last year. The surge in the local tourism industry reflects the royal borough's wider growth strategy and regeneration programme. Key projects completed, under construction or with planning permission include: London's first cruise terminal and a luxury hotel development at Greenwich Peninsula. It has all meant unprecedented visitor numbers enjoyed a unique programme of sport, festivals, processions and other entertainment events in the royal borough.

Borough launches new tourism company

THE royal borough is setting up its own tourism company to encourage more visitors.

The council already promotes tourism development and takes the lead in marketing the World Heritage Site, but it is launching a community interest company to encourage people to come and base themselves here for short breaks. It will also aim to develop and market all the tourist attractions across the borough beyond the World Heritage Site as well as bring together key public and private sector partners and local businesses to create better links, coordinate marketing, and improve and grow Greenwich as a tourist attraction. Cllr Chris Roberts, leader of the royal borough, said: "The events of 2012 have raised the profile of the royal borough considerably, and it is essential that we create a vehicle for capturing that attention and converting it into a series of initiatives to support the long-term growth of the tourism sector across the whole of Royal Greenwich."

AN acclaimed teenage choir is looking for new voices to hit even higher notes of success. Ultraviolet, an inspirational performance group of young singers and beatboxers, are based at Greenwich Theatre and will resume rehearsals at the theatre on Thursday, November 8.

All sessions are entirely free and open to aspiring young singers or beatboxers, with or without previous experience.

Established three years ago, the group is open to teenagers who live, work or study in the borough and has already notched

Watching the clock

Home of time hosts heart-stopping yarn about a lad whose time is running out

Is there a more fitting stage for a boy with a clockwork heart than right here in the home of time?

Clockheart Boy is running at Greenwich Theatre for one day only on October 28. (Two o'clock, not a minute later.)

It's the story of a wee lad who's got no heart, (not in football parlance - he's literally got nowt where his ticker should be).

He's washed ashore on a windswept beach somewhere in the Outer Hebrides, and wouldn't you know it, he's discovered by a professor and his many wacky creations.

His team of crack-pot cronies consist of a Beetlejuice lookalike, a petite ballerina, a teary clown and a couple of other fringe oddballs.

The prof breathes life into the boy, performing key-hole surgery on him before fitting him out with an Omega timepiece to keep him regular.

His motley crew look on from the waiting room.

Miracle performed and Clockwork Boy soon learns about the joys of the universe: from building sand castles, to dancing in the moonlight, and later, badgering friends for a go on the X Box.

But inevitably, the naive lad must soon learn about the seedy underbelly of our sacred existence. Cue the sad part.

The play owes more than a passing knock to the little wooden tot, Pinocchio. It was adapted by the stage by Sam Gayton from an original idea by Hester Bond.

Greenwich Theatre's director James Haddrell spotted the wee bairn's potential while in Scotland earlier in the year.

He said: "This is one of those shows that children will remember for years to come. I discovered the company at the Edinburgh Festival last year and since then I've been looking for an opportunity to bring them to Greenwich. We have a great reputation at the theatre for our annual children's theatre festival, but there are high quality family productions throughout the year - and Clockheart Boy is set to be one of the highlights."

RK

Clockheart Boy is on at Greenwich Theatre, Crooms Hill, on Sunday October 28 at 2pm. Tickets Box office: 020 8858 7755 or online at www.greenwichtheatre.org choir seeks more young voices up some impressive credits, including performances at Sadlers Wells and the O2 Arena.

A high powered team leads the choir. Musical director is Juliet Russell, a vocal coach on BBC1's The Voice.

Ultraviolet has taken part in Choir of the Year, the Voices Festival and Celebrate Royal Greenwich. It has also been filmed as part of Youth Music week.

Greenwich Theatre director James Haddrell told GT: "There is nothing more inspiring in our industry than seeing the young performers of tomorrow learning their craft, discovering the thrill of performing, and enjoying their earliest successes. I have no doubt their achievements will grow and grow."

Anyone interested in joining Ultraviolet should contact Juliet Russell by email at juliet@julietrussell.com or call Greenwich Theatre on 020 8858 4447. The choir is also looking for a local corporate sponsor to support their future development.

Wheely good advice for cyclists

RIDE a bike? Well make sure you don't get it vandalised or stolen, with help from Greenwich police. Officers will provide security marking as part of a crime prevention week. They will be outside the Arches Leisure Centre in Trafalgar Road on Thursday (October 25) from 4pm to 8pm, and at the Greenwich Millennium Village outside Café Pura on Friday (October 26) at the same times. Police Sgt Tom Lee from the Greenwich Safer Transport team said: "We want to help anyone with a bike to ensure that they have done all they can to protect it. Many people rely heavily on their bikes - these are often a real investment and need to be protected. Marking them will ensure that we are better equipped to trace bikes if stolen and reunite them with their owners. Please come and see us." Cyclists are advised to secure their bikes with a good quality lock even if leaving it for just a few minutes, and lock it to something secure, such as a cycle rack or a lamppost. Remove detachable items like lights, and keep it in a locked garage or shed.

Scene story correction

In our feature about the Woolwich Singers (Singing to The Choir, Scene October 16) we had an incorrect spelling for the name of the group's musical director. The correct name of the musical director is Rita Monori and not Minori as printed. Apologies for this error and any inconvenience caused.

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 310

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free in either your neighbourhood housing office, library or UK Online centre.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 31 October 2012 at midday and will include any Housing Association properties when available. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 28 October 2012.

Seaside and Country Scheme

This scheme offers one and two bedroom flats and bungalows on the Coast and in the countryside, in the South East and West of England.

In order to be considered you must be:

- A Council or Housing Association tenant
- At least 60 years old (if someone is moving with you they must be over 55 years old).

Your removal costs will be met if you are a Council tenant and you do move to a Seaside and Country home. To register, or find out more about the scheme, contact the Access and Allocation section on Tel: 020 8921 2941

If you are a Housing Association tenant you need to contact your landlord to register. Further information is available from the scheme management organisation at www.housingmoves.org

Mutual Exchange Swapping your home

Council and Housing Association Tenants can exchange their property with another tenant. From April 2006 applicants who have registered for a mutual exchange will be able to find suitable swaps through the Greenwich Homes website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes.

GreenwichHomes

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector housing.

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

This is what happened to the homes advertised in issue 307

Two more open door events for new university tech college

TWO open day events at Royal Greenwich's University Technical College were so popular that they have organised two further events. Hundreds of prospective students and their parents went to the open days for the new college earlier this month.

The events included interactive lesson demonstrations so visitors could experience a typical lesson at the college which opens in September.

Now further information events are being held on Friday, October 26 from 6pm to 8.30pm and on Saturday, October 27 from 10am to 12.30pm at the Stephen Lawrence Gallery, Old Royal Naval College, Park Row, SE10 9LS.

The new college is currently being built but prospective students can apply now via the college's website for entry in September next year. It is offering students aged 14 to 19 the chance to study construction and engineering using the latest hi tech facilities alongside GCSEs. The college is backed by a partnership of education and industry partners including the Royal Borough of Greenwich, the University of Greenwich, the Wates Group and Transport for London. championships and finished fourth in the National Alpha Factor competition," said Kaylie, "where the girls won five medals. Three girls will compete in the national finals at the end of the year."

Fifteen year-old Tayla Chilver, who lives in Eltham, retired from gymnastics after competing at the British Championships in 2011 but is now back at the club. She said: "I came to look at the new facility at Thomas Tallis and was amazed to have such an amazing gym right on my doorstep. Before I knew it, the gymnastics bug had got me again and I have never been happier in the gym."

"In my first competition in September, I finished fourth against girls from all over the country."

"I am also helping out in the gym to coach the younger gymnasts as I try to get my coaching qualifications. This gym has an atmosphere like no other!"

Lesley Alkaner, whose daughter Rojda, is a Royals gymnast, told GT: "Rojda started recreational gymnastics just after her third birthday at the newly-opened Eltham Centre. Now, aged nearly six, her ambition after this year's London Olympics is to be a Team GB member. She loves it"

The gym is part of Royal Greenwich's investment in sporting facilities for sports clubs and the community. The gymnastics club is run by Better for Greenwich Leisure Limited. Development manager Jessica Hannen told GT: "Many young people – and adults! – have been inspired by the Olympics to take up gymnastics and the opening of the facility at Thomas Tallis has seen a huge surge in participation locally. "Our aim working with British Gymnastics is to produce another Olympian like Beth Tweddle or Louis Smith."

Gemma's footsteps

by Peter Cordwell

THE ultra-modern borough facilities that are home to Olympic judo silver medallist Gemma Gibbons are now planning to produce the next Beth Tweddle too

Greenwich Royals Gymnastics Club, which won't be a year old until January, has no fewer than 500 gymnasts training over six days a week at Thomas Tallis secondary school in Kidbrooke Park Road.

"We started in January with just under 100 participants twice a week, so you can see we have grown amazingly," said head girls' squad coach Kaylie Reakes.

"Our programme caters for children and adults of all ages and abilities. We have pre-school classes for our youngest gymnasts, general classes for children and a number of general and artistic squads for our elite gymnasts, some of whom train up to 21 hours a week."

Kaylie's squad had grown dramatically over the last six months and enjoyed lots of success. "We have won numerous medals in the regional
